

Editorial Calendar

The Waterways Journal will produce 51 weekly print/digital editions in 2022 (every Monday except Jan. 3), all featuring exclusive content covering the latest news, trends, and industry events. Twice a month, we have set aside pages for specific areas of interest to our readers. Our schedule of twice monthly feature issues for 2022 is as follows:

DREDGING & INFRASTRUCTURE REPORT

To keep commerce along waterways moving and to provide opportunities for growth so others can benefit from the economic, safety and environmental advantages of waterway transportation, aging infrastructure needs to be addressed, channels need to be maintained and new port construction needs to continue. In the first issue of every month, The Waterways Journal will devote a section to this important topic. It is also an opportunity for contractors, engineers and vendors to advertise and promote products and services that can assist.

JANUARY 24

State of the Industry/New Products: Our "Crystal Ball" issue will present industry leaders' predictions of what the year 2022 will hold for the inland marine industry. Also, we take a look at recently introduced products to make your business safer and more profitable.

FEBRUARY 21

The Wheelhouse: This issue will look at the towing industry from the pilothouse eye level. We will examine new technologies that aid navigation and improve safety, and discuss some of the issues faced by today's towing-vessel captains. Plus, we'll have profiles and interviews of some of the industry's most respected mariners.

March 21

Vessel Construction & Repair: Our annual look at inland shipyards and repair facilities, highlighting new deliveries and future construction/repair needs. We will feature several new builds and repowering projects in this issue.

APRIL 18

Inland Ports & Terminals: A look at what's new with river ports and terminals including funding challenges, new developments and more. The issue will feature products and services used by ports and terminals, including conveyor systems, storage solutions and material-handling equipment.

MAY 16

IMX: This issue will preview the ninth annual Inland Marine Expo, organized by The Waterways Journal. The event will be held in St. Louis, Mo., May 23-25.

JUNE 20

Great Lakes: The Great Lakes, connected to the inland waterways via the Chicago Ship Canal, is home to large deep draft ships that combined moved 143.5 million tons of cargo in 2017. Its shared governance between the US and Canada, its depth and capacity for large ships, and its connection to the Atlantic via the St. Lawrence Seaway provide unique challenges and opportunities. In this issue we will explore the Great Lakes shipping industry.

JULY 18

Gulf Intracoastal Waterway: Published in advance of the Gulf Intracoastal Canal Association annual meeting, this issue will cover key issues important to those operating along the GIWW. We will also highlight trends in the tank barge industry.

AUGUST 22

Professional Services: Operators on the inland waterways count on equipment brokers, surveyors, civil engineers, insurance brokers, financiers and other professionals to help solve problems and take advantage of new opportunities. We will be highlighting these professionals and their many contributions.

SEPTEMBER 19

The Engine room: This month, we go below deck to scout out new advances in towboat propulsion. We'll look at recent advances in engines, gears, propellers and steering systems, and we'll also profile some of the unsung heroes of the towing industry: vessel and port engineers.

OCTOBER 17

Safety & Environmental Stewardship: The inland marine transportation industry is the safest and most environmentally friendly mode of transportation, and it finds new ways to improve each year. We will explore the latest safety trends and environmental stewardship on behalf of carriers, ports and terminals, and shipyards.

NOVEMBER 21

Workboat Show: This issue will preview the largest trade show of its kind, the International Workboat Show, and explore some of the new products and services that are available in the industry. Extra copies will be distributed at our booth.

DECEMBER 19

Annual Review: A comprehensive look at key developments in the industry in 2022, with valuable boat tables to help keep track of new construction, acquisitions and more. This is also our Holiday issue with thank yous and season's greetings opportunities.

Note: The Waterways Journal will not publish an issue on Monday, Jan. 3.
